

DOD demands more info on POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dismayed that the Communists acknowledged holding only 10 prisoners of war in Laos, the Defense Department said Friday it considers the list incomplete and has demanded "more information from the other side in Paris."

"It doesn't appear to us that this could be a complete list, and we are asking some questions through diplomatic channels," said Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim.

The Laotian list was handed over by North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris Thursday after an unexplained five-day delay following release of the names of 555 Americans held captive in Vietnam.

The list given to U.S. authorities Thursday identified seven U.S. military officers and three civilians—two Americans and a Canadian—as survivors held by the Pathet Lao.

Unlike the far longer lists provided last Saturday, the Laos list made no mention of any captives who died in prison.

"We had expectations of learning about more men held in Laos," Friedheim said. "That's why we have gone back and asked for more information from the other side, particularly on the lists of Laos. We don't see how that list of seven officers we received could be complete. We had greater expectations than that, obviously."

The Pentagon's own records identified six men as POWs and 311 others as missing in action in Laos. Some officials had expected as many as 50 or 60 names on the Communist list.

Although the Pentagon maintains hope otherwise, Thursday's Laotian list might be the last roster of surviving POWs in Southeast Asia the United States will receive.

So far Hanoi has identified 562 U.S. servicemen and 35 civilians as living prisoners in North and South Vietnam and Laos. An additional 55 military men and 13 civilians of four nations have been listed as having died in captivity.

Reagan to begin shuffling agency

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Reagan administration Friday said it will begin March 1 shifting functions of three state agencies into the newly created Department of Public Health.

Planning for the major reorganization, which will transfer the present departments of mental hygiene, public health, and health care services to the new agency, has been underway since last year.

Dr. J. M. Stubblebine, former mental hygiene director who was named by Gov. Ronald Reagan to head up the new department, said the reorganization would begin March 1 by putting some sections of all the departments involved under two new health financing and administration systems.

He said completion of the shifts was expected by July 1, when the new department officially becomes effective.

Stubblebine outlined plans for the transfers in a letter to all state employees effected by the reorganization.

The California State Employees Associated criticized the timetable for the shakeup in its newspaper Friday, saying Stubblebine "failed to give any information on the cost of the reorganization or how the employees involved in the transfers would be affected."

A spokesman for Stubblebine said Reagan has already announced the reorganization would cut 1,000 positions, primarily in middle management, from the three health agencies over the next two fiscal years.

"We're eliminating a lot of duplicated functions. And this is going to be done by attrition, not by layoffs," the spokesman said. "We can't guarantee that, but we don't expect any."

After the March 1 beginning date, Stubblebine said health care services, principally MediCal, would be funneled into the new department April 1.

Fighting at new low despite squabbles

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam began its lunar Year of the Water Buffalo Saturday with cease-fire violations at a new low level. The agencies set up to police the truce were finally showing their first signs of progress.

Squabbling in the conference rooms still blocked attempts to make peace, but representatives of the four powers in the cease-fire supervision unit hoped to meet for the first time Saturday with the heads of delegations of the four warring entities.

The South Vietnamese command's morning communique Saturday listed no major battles for the first time since the cease-fire began Jan. 28. Military sources said there were no significant actions underway in the country.

However, government intelligence sources reported capture of two documents which raised questions of the permanency of any cease-fire. One, seized in the I Military Region (the northernmost province), informed Communist units that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese signed the ceasefire only to induce the Americans to withdraw. It said the war would continue.

The second document, captured along the central coast in Binh Dinh province, instructed Communist units to continue fighting, inflict as many casualties as possible, and attempt to block highways until the International Commission for Control (ICCS) and supervision truce inspectors moved in to recognize Viet Cong control of the roads.

In five small skirmishes reported Saturday, the South Vietnamese command listed 29 Communists killed and one government militiaman wounded.

In the 18 hours ending at 6 a.m. Saturday (5 p.m. EST Friday) the South Vietnamese command reported 108 truce violations. In the same period a day earlier the total was 146. The intensity of the violations was off sharply too. In eight clashes reported for the same time period a day earlier, 220 Communists were listed as killed and government casualties were four dead and 28 wounded.

While lion dancers snaked through the crowded streets of Saigon's Chinese district to greet the Vietnamese New Year, which begins Saturday, teams of cease-fire supervisors from the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) went into the field to inspect future headquarters.

And for the first time, the heads of the four delegations to the Joint Military Commission (JMC)—which is to arrange release of American prisoners of war—met for four hours at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airbase.

Sources said details on releasing American POWs would be discussed at the next meeting on Sunday. On Friday the JMC discussed removal of American mines from North Vietnamese waters and getting cease-fire supervisory teams into the field.

American officials originally had hoped the first POWs already would be released, but quarreling among the Vietnamese representatives to the JMC has delayed the release, according to U.S. sources.

South Vietnamese military spokesmen said there were 200 "enemy-initiated" violations of the armistice between dawn Thursday and dawn Friday, 12 more than the 188 reported during the previous 24 hours.

Most of the attacks and battles were minor, however, the spokesmen said. Between the start of the cease-fire at 8 a.m. Sunday until dawn Friday, the South Vietnamese have reported 1,357

Communist violations of the cease-fire.

No figures are given on South Vietnamese offensive operations. The Viet Cong's Liberation Radio charged Thursday night that "U.S. jets" bombed a village on South Vietnam's Central Coast Sunday seven hours after the cease-fire began. The U.S. command denied it.

According to South Vietnamese statistics, at least 3,338 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, 539 South Vietnamese soldiers and 17 civilians had been killed.

Fighting Friday was reported at 29 hamlets penetrated by the Communists earlier this week, mostly in the Saigon region.

President Nixon nominated for Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO (UPI) — President Nixon has been nominated and will be considered for the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize, the Nobel foundation said Friday.

In an unprecedented announcement, foundation director August Shou said that Nixon was among 40 names, including that of President Tito of Yugoslavia, to be considered for the honor this year.

Sources at the foundation said Nixon's name was placed in nomination by a group of Republican congressmen and U.S. diplomats attending a meeting of the Inter-Parliamentary Union.

The group cited the President's trips to Moscow and Peking and his work to limit the proliferation of nuclear weapons as the basis for nomination, the sources said. They said the Vietnam ceasefire agreement was not among the reasons the group cited for Nixon's candidacy.

Political sources here said it was believed that animosity in Scandinavia over the conduct of the Vietnam War would result in the early elimination of Nixon's name from consideration. Members of the Nobel Committee are Norwegian parliamentarians.

The announcement was the first time in the history of the Nobel Peace Prize that the foundation has published the names of any candidates.

Brazil's controversial Roman Catholic Bishop, Dom Helder Camara, was also on the official list.

The peace award was last presented in 1971, when it went to West German Chancellor Willy Brandt for his policy of reconciliation with the East European nations.

Public nuisance hearings Tuesday

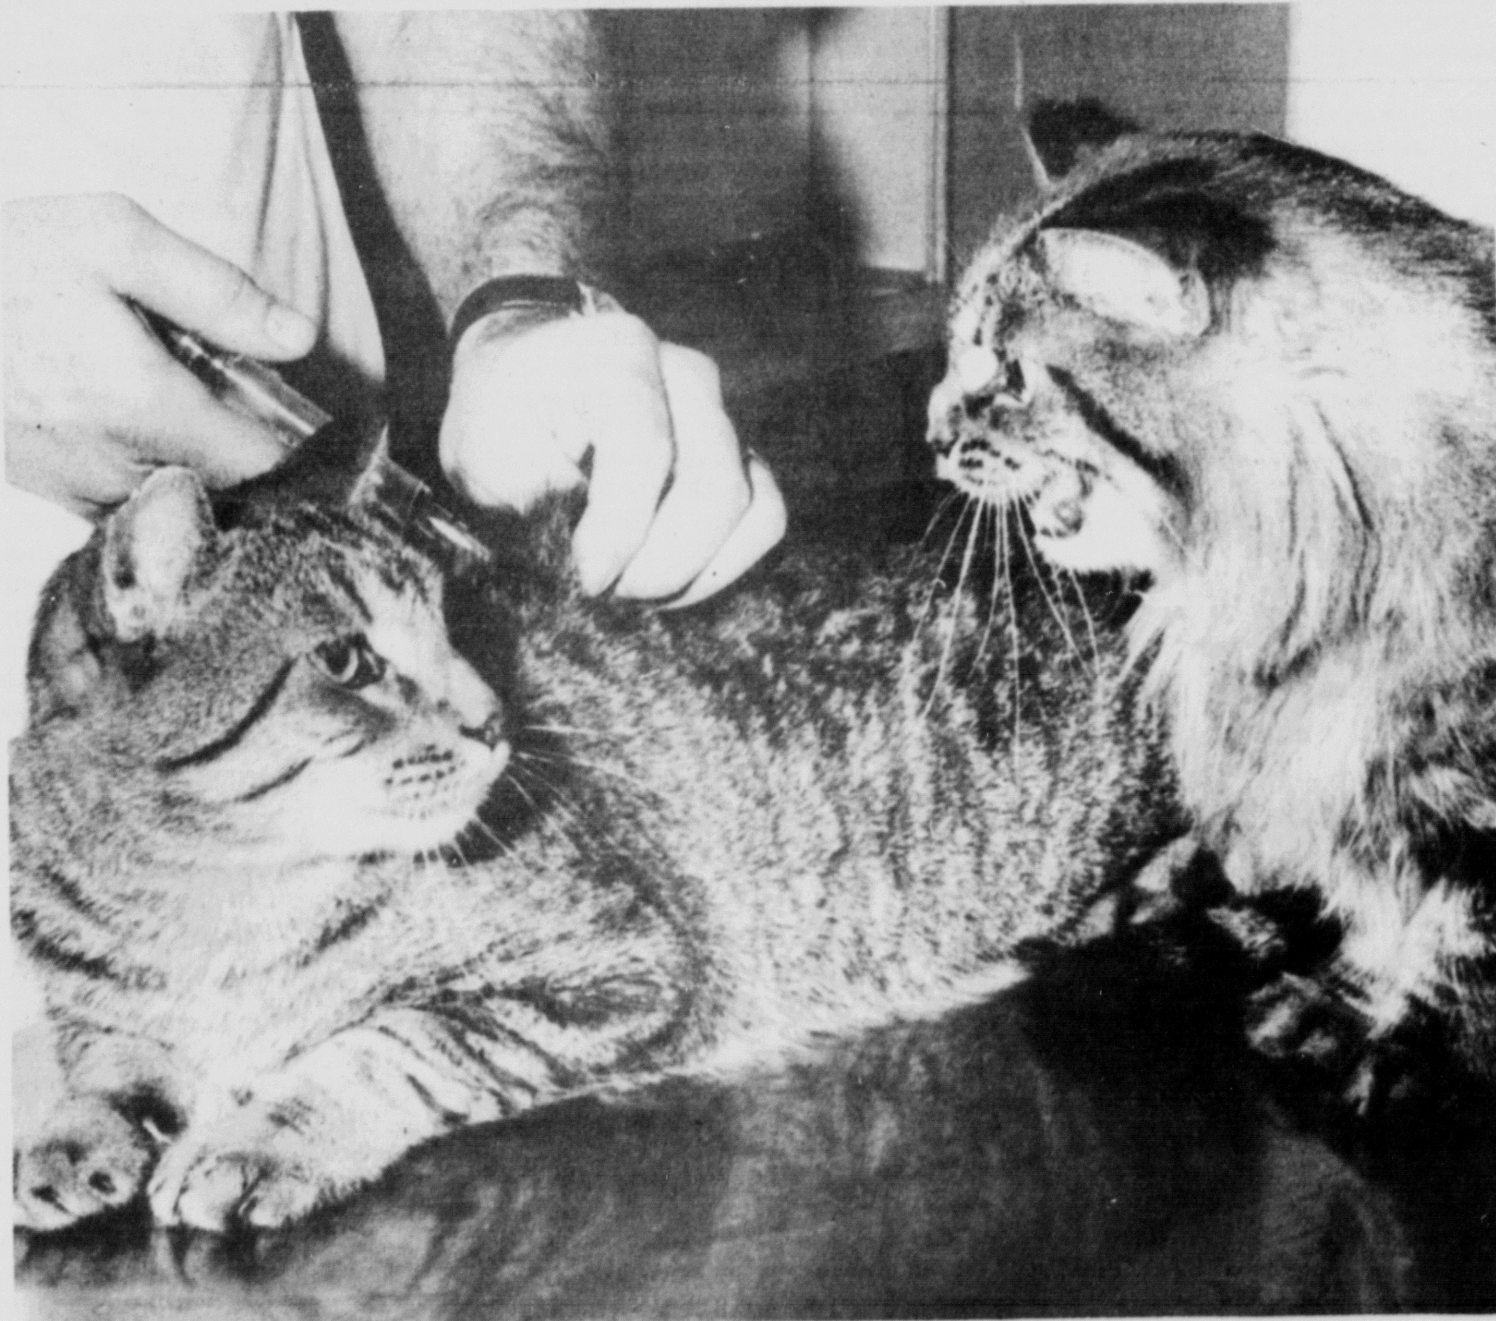

Lompoc City Council Tuesday will hold public hearings to determine whether a public nuisance exists on two parcels of property.

The action is a preliminary step to the invocation of sanctions. Cited are parcels at 115½ North F St., and 122 South H St.

The Council will also hear a report on the cost of abating a property nuisance at 610-614 North H St., formerly occupied by Minnie Pearl's restaurant.

In other action the council will consider the following:

—A report on the proposed channelization of North H Street between Pine and North Avenues.

"IF WE ACTED FINICKY NOW WE'D WIN an oscar and we'd deserve it," says fidgety feline, right, as he waits his turn for an anti-rabies inoculation. The scene was a dress rehearsal with veterinarian Dr. Tom Thompson for an anti-rabies clinic for cats today, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in Pioneer Park. The clinic is a duplicate of one held recently for dogs in a drive to wipe out rabies.

OEP prepares plan to meet nation's energy crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) has prepared a draft plan calling for rationing of a variety of fuels—from gasoline to home heating—to meet the nation's energy crisis, the Washington Star-News said Friday.

The draft plan, which the newspaper said is being circulated among high administration officials, would require the President to declare a national emergency before it could be implemented.

Once implemented, it would allow the government to take steps to require the use of substitutes such as coal for oil where possible, the Star-News said.

It also would establish a system of priorities for fuel use in order that essential trucking and railroad traffic as well as mass transit systems could continue to operate during a fuel crisis, the newspaper said.

The rationing system would compare to that used during World War II.

Disclosure of the emergency plan came on the heels of testimony before the Senate Interior Committee that the latest refinery figures show that production of heating oils dropped during January when the nation first began to hear of a fuel shortage.

Darrell M. Trent, acting director of the OEP, told the committee the OEP believes production of heating and diesel oil could be increased by several hundred million barrels a day.

The electric utility industry said, meantime, it would push a cooperative research effort aimed at easing the energy crush that will begin with expenditures of $75.1 million.

Demo leaders skeptical of Nixon offer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill reacted with polite skepticism Friday to President Nixon's offer to cooperate with Congress in fashioning a "fresh approach to government."

The first of a series of State of the Union messages submitted by Nixon stirred little comment among Democrats already incensed over the President's refusal to spend appropriations approved last year, and his new budget proposals to dismantle many Democratic social welfare programs of the 1960s.

"The administration's priorities are not always the priorities of the Democratic Congress," said House Speaker Carl Albert. "I do not subscribe to the philosophy that 'the White House knows best.'"

Hospital to form new proposal for project

Hospital Administrator Kenneth D. Wicks will formulate an alternate proposal on a long term care convalescent hospital in a second attempt to meet state guidelines.

Wicks decided to go ahead with an alternate plan yesterday after consultation with an official of the Channel Counties Comprehensive Health Planning Council in Santa Barbara. An official of the state Health Planning Council who was to have been on hand also, failed to arrive as scheduled, Wicks said.

Details of Wicks plan will be submitted to directors of Lompoc Hospital District at a special meeting on Feb. 19.

On Jan. 17 the state council turned down the request of the Lompoc District for a variance to clear the way for a 74-bed long term care convalescent hospital at Walnut Avenue and Third Street. After that setback the district directors ordered Wicks to proceed with parts of the hospital's expansion program not hampered by the state restrictions.

Last year, voters approved a bond issue of $1.5 million by a resounding 69 per cent plurality. With that kind of mandate the district board bought the property for the long term care unit and proceeded with architectural commitments.

The court on abortion

Says Justice Blackmun, speaking for the majority of the Supreme Court: "We need not resolve the difficult question of when life begins. When those trained in the respective disciplines of medicine, philosophy, and theology are unable to arrive at any consensus, the judiciary, at this point in the development of man's knowledge, is not in a position to speculate as to the answer." But in fact the Court didn't proceed to speculate on the answer, it proceeded to act on an answer it very simply promulgated. Up until three months, said the Court, the human fetus is nothing more than a biological lump of the mother, as expendable as a cyst. From three months to six months, it is something more than just that, but just exactly what, the Court spared us the intellectual embarrassment of stipulating. Then, during the last three months, or more exactly the last ten weeks, the fetus is conceded by the Court as being "viable." That means that even separated from the mother the fetus could develop into a complete human being. Does that mean that beginning at this point the Court confers constitutional protections on the fetus? No. At that point, says the Court, "the state . . . may go so far as to proscribe abortion."

Really, it was an outrageous decision. Concerning it, a few observations:

1) Because the theological, philosophical, and medical worlds are divided on just when the fetus can be considered to be "human," why does that mean that the Supreme Court must therefore make the decision? The theological, philosophical, and medical worlds are divided on the question when a human being reaches the age of maturity; and, accordingly, a decision is reached (at age 18) not by the theologians, philosophers, doctors — or by the members of the Supreme Court — but by the politicians, who give their views on the subject, informed by the people.

2) The notion that we have here a church-state issue in the denominational sense is preposterous. It is everywhere suggested that it is a Catholics - against - the world issue. Yet the most recent national referendums on the matter, in Michigan and North Dakota — both of them states in which Catholics are a minority — ruled against liberalizing the abortion laws. It is quite true that Catholics are particularly mobilized against abortion — why shouldn't they be? Jews are particularly mobilized against genocide — is that wrong? But the notion that opposition to abortion is a Catholic peculiarity not only misses the point, but fails altogether to justify the judiciary's stepping into an argument totally removed from its authority and its competence.

3) Insofar as the Court attempted to base its line of reasoning on the argument that it is wrong to deny a woman an abortion since statistics show that giving birth to a child is more dangerous than aborting it, the Court was implausible — as one of the dissenters, Justice White, scathingly pointed out. "At the heart of the controversy," he said, "are those recurring pregnancies that pose no danger whatsoever to the life or health of the mother but are nevertheless unwanted for any one or more of a variety of reasons — convenience, family planning, economics, dislike of children, the embarrassment of illegitimacy, etc."

In a sentence which will survive in the annals of syntactical inelegance and analytical chaos, the Court said: "Maternity, or additional offspring, may force upon the woman a distressful life and future. Psychological harm may be imminent. Mental and physical health may be taxed by child care." So that is the reason to allow abortion! I should think it at the very least a good excuse to justify infanticide. And the very best of reasons for justifying the elimination of all adolescents as a class. God knows they force upon most mothers a "distressful" life, as the judge put it. The psychological harm of wayward children is not only "imminent," but concrete, as is the "tax" on the "mental and physical health" of their parents.

4) If it should happen tomorrow that medical science developed a means of protecting the embryo at age six weeks, does the Supreme Court understand its decision as having been invalidated?

The whole of it is dismal, reaching right down to the neglected cuticles of the Court's language. It is, verily, the Dred Scott decision of the 20th century. One shudders at what a Supreme Court, taking on the responsibility to decide such questions as these, will feel free to rule upon in the years to come. Woe unto those Americans who, because of their great age, threaten distressfulness upon their children.

The boxing judge is a woman

HARRIBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The switch from stockbroker to boxing judge is an unusual one, especially for a woman.

Petite Carol Polis, 36, Fort Washington, Pa., became the nation's first female boxing judge Thursday, because, as she put it, she was "a very, very bored housewife."

After years of watching her husband referee matches as a sideline, she decided to try for an official ringside seat.

She went through a three-month apprenticeship and passed a state test. Athletic Commission officials said her accuracy "equals or surpasses the other judges."

Gov. Milton J. Shapp personally presented her with a license and called it "a solid blow against male supremacy."

Board to consider redistricting Monday

The Board of Supervisors will meet Monday to consider several possibilities of redistricting the county to achieve population equally in the five supervisorial districts.

Speculation in county government circles today was that there seems to be little chance of major changes and that minor boundary changes conceivably could be made which would involve shifting of the two Buellton voting precincts from the third district to the fourth district.

The county redistricting committee, in a report to be presented to the board at 10 a.m. Monday, indicated that it seemed best that any major changes be held off until immediately after an election so as not to cause major disenfranchisement problems.

The board is still being asked to consider the possibility of shifting Santa Ynez Valley area and Hope ranch into the urbanized second district south of the Santa Ynez mountains, a move that has aroused considerable opposition on both the Valley and South Coast areas.

Coast commission to pick first executive director

The South Central Coast Commission formed to implement Proposition 20 in the tri-counties has not scheduled an executive session for Feb. 10 to consider selection of an executive director at a pay range from $18,000 to $25,000.

Commission vice chairman J. Tim Terry of Santa Barbara said today there are "dozens of applicants." The commission, which had an all day session Thursday in Santa Barbara, called on the state attorney general to advise the body how to proceed in the case of the controversial Vista del Montecito 99-unit ocean front condominium project on the Montecito ocean front.

The commission had before it a motion Friday to call upon the developers to halt the project, which has been opposed by Chumash

Indian descendants, conservationists and much of the Montecito community.

The Attorney General's office is expected to advise the commission within 10 days whether or not the developers can proceed without applying for a commission permit under proposition 20.

News in brief

London flu epidemic

ATLANTA (UPI) — An epidemic of London flu sweeping the nation has claimed the lives of 1,027 persons, the National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) said Friday.

Reports from 122 major U.S. cities, according to NCDC, show that the number of deaths from influenza and pneumonia has risen above the epidemic threshold for the fourth consecutive week.

The number of deaths from the disease increased during the week ended Jan. 26 in all sections of the country except in the Middle Atlantic, South Atlantic and West South Central states, where a decrease in the mortality was noted, the agency reported.

Most of influenza-pneumonia deaths involved the elderly or those suffering from underlying chronic ailments.

The NCDC said, that although 1,027 persons died in the first four weeks of this year from influenza, this mortality figure was less than for the same period of 1972 when, 1,105 persons died of the Hong Kon flu.

The total number of flu deaths for the latest reported week was 909, the NCDC said, which was 321 more than the number expected for that period.

Handgun legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said Friday he will begin drafting handgun legislation next week designed to meet the objections of Congress.

At his news conference Wednesday, President Nixon endorsed the concept of legislation to restrict the sale of cheap "Saturday night special" handguns widely used in holdups. It is believed such a weapon was used against Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who was seriously wounded during a holdup here Tuesday.

"I think we need to take a look at handgun legislation and perhaps offer a couple of other restrictive possibilities," Kleindienst said. "We're studying it now and I hope to come up with something definite next week."

Police attack Jewish activist

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet secret police Friday threw a Jewish activist to the ground and kicked him before screaming passersby on a crowded street in an attempt to break up his meeting with a western correspondent, the newsman said.

Ulrich Mulert, a correspondent for the West German news agency Deutsche Presse Agentur (DPA), said the plainclothes police shouted "hooligan, hooligan" at the activist, Alexei Tumerman, then bundled him into a car and took him away.

A second Jewish activist, Alexander Levich, was grabbed by the agents but later released after one of them said, "We're not after this one."

Stennis in danger period

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Surgeons said Friday that Sen. John C. Stennis, critically wounded in a holdup, had entered a "danger period" during which his bullet-damaged internal organs could become infected.

Maj. Frank Garland, public affairs officer for Walter Reed Army Medical Center, said the condition of the 71-year-old Mississippi Democrat still was listed as "very serious and his prognosis is guarded."

He told a mid-afternoon briefing that Stennis, robbed and shot twice in front of his northwest Washington home Tuesday night, was resting well and "his vital signs are good."

Call for cease-fire

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — A high member of the Communist Pathet Lao has called for an immediate cease-fire in Laos, informed diplomatic sources said Friday. They said the official was expected to arrive here Saturday for concrete negotiations.

Other sources said Saturday that American officials in Laos have taken advantage of the Vietnam cease-fire to bring heavy B52 bombing into effect against North Vietnamese troops and supply lines in northern Laos.

The proposal for a cease-fire was contained in a telegram to the government of Premier Souvanna Phouma. It was broadcast by the clandestine Pathet Lao radio which said the cable was sent Thursday. It came from Phoumvi Vongvichit and was addressed to Souvanna.

La Purisima school receiving books from state

La Purisima Catholic parochial school, which provides education through the eighth grade for 245 students, is receiving free textbooks and instructional materials under a state law that is being challenged in the courts.

The tiny school located at Olive Avenue and J Street gets about one per cent of its textbooks and a limited amount of audio visual materials, according to Barbara Rowe, principal.

The state law permitting the furnishing of textbooks to private or religious parochial schools was enacted in 1971.

Wednesday the California Teachers Association and the American Civil Liberties Union challenged the legislation in a court suit. The suit names State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles and the State Board of Education as defendants. It charges that a law signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1971 violates the separation of church and state sections of the California and U.S. Constitutions.

The suit alleges that during the 1972-73

Nixon 'peace Cabinet' sworn in WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight members of what President Nixon called his "peace Cabinet" were sworn in formally Friday in a mass White House ceremony.

In addition to the Cabinet officers, 12 undersecretaries, deputy secretaries, agency directors, ambassadors and other officials were administered oaths individually by Chief Justice Warren G. Burger.

In a brief introduction, Nixon said his second-term Cabinet represented both parties as well as all segments of the nation and was best described "as a peace Cabinet."

The Cabinet members sworn in were: Elliot L. Richardson, defense secretary; Frederick B. Dent, commerce; Peter J. Brennan, labor; James T. Lynn, housing and urban development; and Claude S. Brinegar, transportation.

The only remaining Cabinet nominee still awaiting Senate confirmation is Casper W. Weinberger, chosen to

Wife follows husband lead; nailed to cross

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — The wife of a French yogi who had himself nailed to a cross for 20 hours before doctors brought him down was herself crucified Friday as her 7-year-old son stood by weeping.

Several women among the throng of curious onlookers fainted on the lawn of the Jaragua Hotel when Marita Tamao, 31, was nailed to the cross and gingerly raised into position.

The crucifixion was a resumption of a mind-over-matter demonstration which aborted Thursday when an infection set in on the foot of Mrs. Tamao's husband, Patrick.

Tamao had intended to spend three days on the cross raised at the hotel to preach world peace and love. However, a few hours after he was raised the cross was taken down from its upright postion at the

Airline fined for not searching senator

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government fined Delta Airlines $2,000 Friday for allowing Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., to board a jetliner without passing through an anti-hijacking screening device.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the airline was guilty on two counts of violating the governments new anti-hijack security program — it did not search Hartke, nor did it search his luggage. The incident took place Jan. 15 when Hartke boarded a Delta Airline plane at Indianapolis.

The senator refused to submit to the required screening, contending that it was equivalent to arrest.

He also claimed that under the Constitution, a U.S. senator can be arrested only for treason for a felony.

In the same month, Allegheny Airlines also allowed Hartke to board a flight without being searched. A spokesman said the investigation of the Allegheny incident was continuing, and a decision on a fine was expected shortly.

In a statement issued Thursday, Allegheny admitted that Hartke was allowed to board a flight from the Evansville, Ind., airport without being searched.

Pilot breaks up brawl by putting plane in dive

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet airline pilot was forced to put his plane in a dizzying nosedrive to break up a brawl among boisterous passengers, a Soviet newspaper said Friday.

Komsomolskaya Pravda said the disturbance was caused by three wine-drinking men who terrorized women and punched a fellow passenger over Western Siberia.

The newspaper said the pilot stopped the fight by first ordering the other passengers to fasten their safety belts, then putting the plane into a dive and then a steep climb.

The three brawlers were hurled helplessly about the passenger compartment of the wildly gyrating plane, then taken into custody by police officers when the plane landed at Novokuznetsk.

head the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Three others with Cabinet rank also were sworn in: Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget; John Scali, United Nations ambassador; and Anne L. Armstrong, counselor to the President.

Others taking the oath included: James R. Schlesinger, director of the Central Intelligence Agency; Kenneth Rush, deputy secretary of state; William E. Simon, deputy treasury secretary; Joseph T. Sneed, deputy attorney general; John C. Whitaker, under secretary of interior.

Frank Carlucci, HEW undersecretary; Egil Krogh, Jr., transportation undersecretary; William J. Porter, undersecretary of state for political affairs; William J. Casey, undersecretary of state for economic affairs; Donald Rumsfeld, ambassador to NATO; Frederic V. Malek, deputy budget director, and Frank C. Herringer, administrator of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

Task force ready to clear harbors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said Friday a task force of 48 helicopters from the Navy and Marine Corps and 20 to 25 ships is awaiting the go-ahead from U.S. and North Vietnamese officials to start clearing out the mines American pilots planted in North Vietnam's rivers and harbors.

Some of the ships, including four conventional minesweepers, already are on station off North Vietnam's coast, said Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim. He said the rest were at Subic Bay Naval Base in the Philippines.

"We can't do anything until we have a meeting between the two sides," Friedheim said. "In the meantime, we want to get as ready as we can without knowing the specifics."

He said the meeting could take place between members of the Four Party Joint Military Commission being formed in Saigon, or in a direct contact between U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats. Just what form it will take, he said, has not been determined.

In addition to conventional minesweeping ships, the task force will employ helicopters to drag mine clearing sleds through the water.

UPI protest

NEW YORK (UPI) — United Press International has protested the tight restrictions being imposed on news coverage of the return of American prisoners of war from Vietnam.

The protest was voiced in a telegram and a letter sent this week to Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson by UPI President Roderick W. Beaton.

Beaton's letter also asked Richardson to assure that UPI has coverage access to the new headquarters of the U.S. forces remaining in Southeast Asia, which will be in Thailand, far from the capital city of Bangkok.

Random call enables busy man to help girl

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (UPI) — For little Keva Marie MacDonald, it began as a happy day with her great grandmother. For Dave Martinelli, head of a manufacturing company, it was a day of wading through paperwork.

But at 10:30 a.m., a heart attack and a phone call dialed at random linked the busy executive with the frightened 4-year-old girl. What followed was a 60-minute drama that stirred the hearts of people in this panhandle city.

When he answered the private line in his plush office, Martinelli heard a sobbing child say:

"My grandmother is lying by the refrigerator and she's dead."

"What's your name," Martinelli asked.

"Keva Marie MacDonald," the girl replied several times in a heavy lisp.

"Where do you live?"

"With my momma and grandpa."

"What's your address?"

"I don't know."

"Where's your momma?"

"She's a nurse. She goes to school."

"Where's your daddy?"

"He's in California."

"How old are you?"

"This many," little Keva said, apparently holding up four fingers.

While Martinelli talked of everything he could think of to keep the little girl on the phone, he had his secretary contact the telephone company to get them to trace the call. Other employees began checking Panama City hospitals in an effort to locate a nurse by the name of MacDonald, but it turned out that Mrs. Pamela MacDonald was a student nurse at Gulf Coast

Churches observe Christian exchange

In a demonstration of Christian brotherhood two Lompoc churches will engage in a unique exchange beginning Sunday night, Feb. 4, at 7 p.m. and again Sunday night February 11.

The two churches, First Southern Baptist Church and Grace Temple Baptist Church, will journey to each other's church building for joint services. This Sunday night, Dr. W. B. Timberlake will bring the sermon titled "Neither Bond Nor Free." Herb Blackmon will lead the choir of the First Southern Baptist Church in the choir loft of the Grace Temple Baptist Church. Deacons and ushers of the visiting church will serve in their offices.

The next Sunday night, Rev. Vern Haynes, pastor of the Grace Temple Baptist Church will take his church to the First Southern Baptist Church building for evening services. Rev. Haynes will preach and his choir will sing. Deacons and ushers of the visiting church will be in charge of services.

This is the third in this series of exchanges over the past four years. Both congregations are enthusiastic about the exchange. Each church entertains the other with refreshments and fellowship after the formal services.

Church plans for breakfast

Members and friends of First Christian Church (Disciple) will meet for their monthly family fellowship breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Sunday morning at the Lodge Restaurant. Sunday Church School for all age groups follows at 9:15 at the church facility, 1517 West College Ave.

During the 10:30 a.m. worship hour, the Rev. William J. Denton will use the question "How Clean Do You Want To Be?" as his sermon topic. Scripture is from Luke 5:12-26.

The Denton family has invited all interested persons to their home Friday evening, February 9, to view colored slides taken during their service from 1959 through 1964 as missionaries to the Belgian Congo (now known as Zaire).

The Christian Men's Fellowship will sponsor a workday at the church Saturday, Feb. 10.

Book of Numbers

"People of Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow" is the sermon topic tomorrow at 10 a.m. in United Church. Fourth in a series it is based on the Book of Numbers. This English title refers to the numbering or census of the Israelites described in the early chapters. Numbers is about God's discipline of Israel through the 40 years of wilderness wanderings. It deals with the transition from bondage to full national freedom, from an undisciplined crowd of one-time slaves to a people organized under a magnificent leader. Pastor Richard Harris will preach.

Dear Abby

Tell him to get another goat

DEAR ABBY: I am wondering about a young man who called me up, saying he got my name from the La Leche League — an organization to which I belong that provides mother's milk for babies. This man said his wife had died in childbirth and his baby needed mother's milk.

Being a nursing mother for the La Leche League, I agreed to help him out. I expressed the milk out of my breasts by hand and put it in jars, and the man stopped to pick it up. After a few weeks, he broke down and confessed there was no baby, and he had been drinking the milk himself because he has an ulcer and had heard that mother's milk would help relieve the pain. Then he had the nerve to ask me if I would let him nurse direct! I told him I couldn't go along with that.

Should I report him to the police or what? I told him "no" several times, but he keeps calling me. He said he isn't interested in sex, only milk. Is this possible?

ANDREA
DEAR ANDREA: It's possible. Tell him goat's milk is also good for ulcers, so he should find another goat!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I decided to will our bodies to a university medical school because we understood they were needed in their teaching programs. So far, we have been turned down by FOUR medical schools.

The last turn-down came from Yale Medical School. We received what appeared to be a form letter stating in part: "Because of the extremely generous response to our Willet Bobby Program, we are currently at a maximum of our needs and therefore this program is now temporarily closed. We shall place your name and address in our file of prospective donors. When we are able to reopen this program you will then automatically receive the necessary documents for donation of your remains to the University."

Is this the case all over? Sign this,

"ALL DRESSED UP AND NOWHERE TO GO"

DEAR DRESSED: I suggest that anyone interested in leaving his remains to a medical school get in touch with the one nearest him and inquire.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that friends think they are doing you a favor by not telling you about a cheating husband?

Now I realize that for years all my friends knew that my husband was cheating on me, but nobody ever told me. I would have considered it a favor. I recall my aunt telling me that on her way to church one day she saw the husband of a friend kissing and hugging another woman in a parked car. The husband then met his wife after church, and off they went together! My aunt called the man all sorts of names and said the wife was foolish to put up with it. But when I asked my aunt if she had told the wife what she saw, she said, "Oh, no, I couldn't bring myself to tell her!"

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: Because deep down, your aunt knew it was none of her business.

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with that woman whose mother in law keeps repeating the same long, drawn-out stories over and over again because my husband who is a very dear man in every other way, does the same thing.

Here's how I handle it: When he starts one of those familiar stories, I look him in the eye and tune him out and start to plan my meals or think of something else. I do throw in an occasional "Oh, really?" or "Is that so?" when he pauses, just to let him know that I am "listening."

He's pleased because he thinks he's telling me something new, and I'm pleased because I get some thinking done.

I can see one built-in danger to this. If he ever suspects what I'm doing and slips in the story of "The Three Bears" where he usually tells me how many shots it took his brother to win a turkey, I may be in serious trouble.

CHANCING IT

DEAR ABBY: I am writing fast and am going to mail this before I lose my nerve. What do you do when you love your husband who is a lousy lover, and it's your fault because you have pretended a lot and made him think he was great, just to build his ego?

In eight years of marriage I have been satisfied only twice, and that's no lie.

I have been 100 percent faithful to my husband (thank God thoughts don't count) but it is getting more difficult. I have been invited to go to bed with three different men this year, so maybe my hunger is obvious. The fact remains that I don't want to break up my home or anybody else's with an affair, but I am going crazy trying to be a good wife.

Don't think I haven't tried to make things more interesting for my husband, because I have. I've read all the "how to" books to my husband, who falls asleep while I am reading to him.

I would like to hear from other women with this problem. I can't believe I'm the only love-starved woman around.

CLIMBING THE WALLS

DIME HALTS CRIME

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Two youths robbed Willie Patterson, 39, Sunday night while he was standing in a telephone booth — taking $6 but leaving him the dime in his hand.

Patterson used the coin to call police, who arrested the teenaged robbers in their stalled car near the booth.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Old timers might describe the bidding of today's hand as "way out."

They might ask, "Why did North use Blackwood when he held two small clubs?"

The answer to that question is that North was willing to gamble that if South did not hold the ace of clubs he would hold second round control so that he was going to six hearts if South showed just one ace.

What about North's bid of six clubs? What was that bid for?

It was a grand slam force and said, "Partner we have all the aces and I am not particularly interested in kings. What I want to know is do you hold the queen of hearts?"

How was South supposed to show the queen of hearts? He was supposed to jump to seven hearts if he held it.

Then why did South bid seven clubs? We'll let Tom Smith, one of our very fine young players who held the hand in a rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club, give his reasons.

"I decided to let my partner place the grand slam. He might have held the queen of diamonds and no jack or 10 of hearts. In that case diamonds would have been a safer place for the grand slam. He wasn't going to pass to seven clubs."

Seven hearts made easily but there were only 12 tricks available at either spades or no-trump so the "way out" bidding was way in.

What do you do now?

A—Bid six spades. Your partner is showing the ace of clubs and inviting a slam. Bid it in spades.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of responding one diamond your partner has bid one no-trump. What do you do now?

West, Gail hot, LA wins 9th in row

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — Jerry West and Gail Goodrich each sank 24 points Friday night as the rampaging Los Angeles Lakers buried the Houston Rockets 126-109 for their ninth straight NBA victory.

In becoming the first team to win 42 games this season, the defending world champions had seven men in double figures as they built up a 31-point advantage near the end of the third quarter.

Goodrich, who had all his markers in the first three periods, was ejected by referee Len Wirtz with 10:51 remaining in the contest. The 6-foot 1 guard became irate at a foul call and slammed the ball out of Wirtz's hand for the automatic expulsion.

Also contributing strongly to the Lakers' 12th triumph in their last 13 games was center Wilt Chamberlain, who popped in 18 points to go along with 21 rebounds. Houston guard Mike Newlin wound up leading all scorers with 30 points, while teammate Otto Moore contributed 18.

Taking advantage of a Houston cold spell at the outset, Los Angeles broke out to a 10-0 lead in the first three minutes of the contest.

The Rockets, who missed on their first seven field goal attempts, came back to cut the deficit to 16-14. But then Los Angeles edged away again to lead 32-22 at the end of the first 12 minutes.

The Lakers increased the bulge to 60-38 by halftime, taking advantage of 11 Houston fouls to toss in 14 free throws in the second stanza.

Then the Lakers put the game well out of reach by connecting on 17 of 27 shots from the floor in the third quarter to assume a 101-74 lead. The Rockets never got closer than 14 in the second half.

inside on Dallas Riley. But then Kim Kirchoff and John Salazar hit jumpers to open the second quarter and the Braves were suddenly down 12-3 and people began to wave bye-bye to Lompoc's seven game win streak (six in league).

Lompoc might still be looking for double figures had not Mike Bratz discovered how to get the ball through the hoop. With about three minutes of the second period gone and the Braves down 15-4, Mike rifled in a 19-footer over the Saints 1-3-1 zone, then sank a freebie, then took a nifty pass from Dallas Riley for a layup, then hit two more charities.

Seven straight points for Bratz and the Braves crawled back to trail 16-12.

A jumper by Fridrich and a free toss by Dave Farnum made it 16-15. With seconds left in the half, Riley blocked a Kremenliff shot, fired to Fridrich, who fed Farnum for a layup and a 17-16 halftime lead.

Braves' fans sighed. If Lompoc could overcome its enormous first half difficulties and still lead, things looked good.

But the third quarter was a battle. Once again Bratz administered resuscitation, hitting three straight buckets to boost Lompoc to a 27-22 lead.

Then it was Riley's turn to turn on. Dallas usually lets the crowd warm up before he puts on his playing shoes. He was scoreless in the first half, but made two fine tip-ins and a jumper in the third quarter to stake the Braves to a 35-30 lead.

Then Mr. Riley responded to the cheer meter with another tip-in and a long jumper to open the fourth frame.

With John Tatsuno and Kirchoff hitting all over the court, the Saints fought back to within two, 45-43 with two minutes left.

Enter, stage right, Riley. In that last two minutes Dallas did this: Grabbed a rebound, hit a 20 footer, was fouled and made a freebie, grabbed another rebound, was fouled but missed the free throw, was fouled again and sank two free throws. His five points buried the Saints, and Farnum's layup at the buzzer clinched it.

Riley led all rebounders with 17. Farnum had 8 and Fridrich 7.

The Braves shot 6-for-24 in the first half, 9-for-16 in the third quarter, and 21-for-56 in the game.

The Lompoc frosh nipped the Saints 48-46, with Tim Binning hitting 13, Danny Bright 10, and George Renfro and Bruce Nix 7 each. In a frosh reserve game, Santa Maria won 36-28. Lompoc's George Polly and Rich McDonald scored eight each, Steve Terrones 6.

Women break marks in indoor meet

TORONTO (UPI) — Three women, two Americans and a Canadian, set world indoor track records for the 1,000-yard run and 50-yard dash at the Maple Leaf Indoor Games Friday before a record crowd of 15,949 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The games were highlighted also by a double victory by two Kenyans, Mike Boit and Kipchoge Keino, in the men's 1,000yard run and the three-mile race respectively.

American Steve Smith's attempt to better his world indoor mark in the pole vault failed when he could not go beyond 17 feet 1 1/2 inches. He set a record of 18 feet 1/4 inch last week in New York's Millrose Games.

The female record setters were Tennessee State University's Iris Davis in the 50-yard dash and Glenda Reiser, a 17-year-old Ottawa girl who won the 1,000-yard run.

First runner-up to Miss Reiser, the amazing 14-year old Robin Campbell of Washington, D.C., also broke the 100-yard record.

Miss Davis, a member of Tennessee State's noted Tigerbelles, sped over the 50 yards in 5.5 seconds, besting the old mark set by American Wyomia Tyus here in 1966 by one-tenth of a second.

Miss Reiser, a high school senior, paced the 1,000 yards in 2:29.4, a full three seconds faster than the old mark held by American Cathy Gibbons.

Miss Campbell, who attends Hine Junior High School in Washington, was runnerup to Miss Reiser in 2:30.7.

No records were broken in the men's events.

Braves survive freezout to clinch tie for title

BY SCOTT OSTLER

The Lompoc Braves survived the worst quarter of basketball they'll play all year to notch a 52-45 win over the Santa Maria Saints last night and clinch at least a tie for the Northern League championship.

The Saints surprised the Braves by letting the air out of the ball, but when it was over all Santa Maria had was a deflated ego.

If you gave up and left the Lompoc gym after the first quarter, all you know is that the Saints came out in a stall that would do credit to anything the Trojans may try against the Bruins tonight.

The unnerved Braves didn't score a point until five and one-half minutes had elapsed, and they ended the first quarter trailing embarrassingly, 8-3. Only a Rick Fridrich jumper and a Dave Farnum free throw averted a shutout. Lompoc shooters made good on one of their first 15 shot attempts.

Things just couldn't get worse, right? Wrong.

Saint Center George Kremenliff had scored all eight Santa Maria points in the first quarter, working

San Luis Obispo routs Cabrillo 61-28

BY STEVE LA RUE

The trouble with a weak team is that it has to be up for every game.

Cabrillo was up for their Tuesday game with Santa Maria and lost by a point. Last night they weren't and were lunched by San Luis Obispo 61-28.

To say the Congs were cold-handed is too bountiful.

It took 8 minutes and 48 seconds for the Congs to score their first field goal of the evening, after a first quarter of 17 frenzied and unsuccessful attempts.

Cabrillo's only point in the first frame came after six bleak minutes in which the Tigers, on commanding rebounding and brilliant passing, had rolled up 14 points.

Richie Perrelli, the Congs' high point man with eight, stashed the first Hill hoop on a steal and a layup early in the second frame.

But the Congs only shot 3-for-9 in the second period to lift their average to 3-for-26 on the half, while San Luis pumped another 14 in their second frame.

Cabrillo's game shooting total was an abysmal 11-for-65 from the field, about as ineffective as their rebounding.

The officiating was a notch below first cabin as well. No call was made when Kevin Drake received a swift cross-body block in the second half, Marvin Henson was called for tampering with the ball on a smart save, and the game in general was not under control, except by the San Luis marksmen.

Aggressive enough to intimidate Cabrillo into 14 first half turnovers, the Tigers were graceful enough to put on a 27-for-57 jump shot ballet from the field, with an increased tempo in the final period, when they shot 10-for-14.

High point man on the game was Bob Dean, whose 20 foot pumps seemed infallible. He and former quarterback John Dodge also took advantage of feeble Cabrillo board coverage to spring an effective fast break.

The Congs were just trying too hard.

As a replacement in the second quarter, Jim Hager handled the ball well though he didn't score. Drake was stifled to three points, by far his season low. Henson, rotated in the last frame, was good for six points and some fluid ball-handling.

Even the free throws were crawling out of the rim as the Mesa hardwooders could only plunger down six of 19 attempts.

Gold jv men were made the 66-24 first course of the Tiger feast, shooting only 22 per cent from the field to 44 per cent for their opponent. Kirk Dalton was the Hill high pointer with six.

The Cong frosh won theirs 51-29, Marvin Cox pumping in 14 points, and Carlton Roberts and Richard Johnson eight each. A 20-2 Hill second frame made the difference.

Kapp returns — as flag coach

OAKLAND (UPI) — Former pro football quarterback Joe Kapp is returning to the sport — sort of.

Officials at Laney College announced Friday Kapp, who once quarterbacked the Minnesota Vikings and Boston Patriots, has been hired as a parttime instructor of a flag football course.

Forrest Klein, football coach at the junior college who handled Kapp as a freshman at the University of California, said the ex-pro quarterback would help him teach a physical education course "for a couple of hours a week."

Trojans, Bruins in TV battle for loop lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA's powerhouse Bruins, who achieved college basketball immortality last weekend, go after undisputed possession of first place in their own conference Saturday night when they face University of Southern California.

Both the Bruins and the Trojans have 4-0 records in the Pacific-8 but UCLA, which scored a record 61st straight win at Notre Dame last Saturday, is 16-0 while its crosstown rival stands 13-4.

The game will be shown on national television starting at 8:45 p.m. PST at the Sports Arena, home of the Trojans.

"I think we can win it," said USC coach Bob Boyd, whose club has a "mini" win streak of six games.

"We have to control the ball. We can't just throw it up. We've got to make them work on defense. We can't let them set the tempo."

In the last 6-1/2 seasons, John Wooden's Bruins have lost only five games and two of them were to USC — both at Pauley Pavilion.

In the UCLA-USC series rivalry, the Trojans still hold a 79-74 all-time edge over the Bruins but the gap is narrowing. In the past 24 seasons under Wooden, the Bruins have a 55-20 advantage.

During UCLA's streak, the Bruins have beaten the Trojans four times.

A capacity crowd of 15,000 is expected to watch the first of two scheduled meetings of the teams this season. The clubs play at Pauley Pavilion March 10.

Mays stood up by Namath

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — Willie Mays isn't going to wait 40 minutes to play golf with anyone — not even Joe Namath.

The two superstars parted company because of that in Friday's opening round of the $30,000 American Airlines Golf Classic. Although they didn't have any words, they didn't exactly stand there and shake hands either.

A wakeup telephone call that never came caused the split.

Mays, the 42-year-old center-fielder for the New York Mets, became visibly annoyed and then increasingly upset when his partner, Namath, the 29-year-old quarterback for the New York Jets, didn't show up on time for their morning teeoff in the tournament.

When Namath finally made an appearance, 40 minutes late, Mays refused to play with him as he had been scheduled to in the baseball player-football player pairings which are used in this tournament.

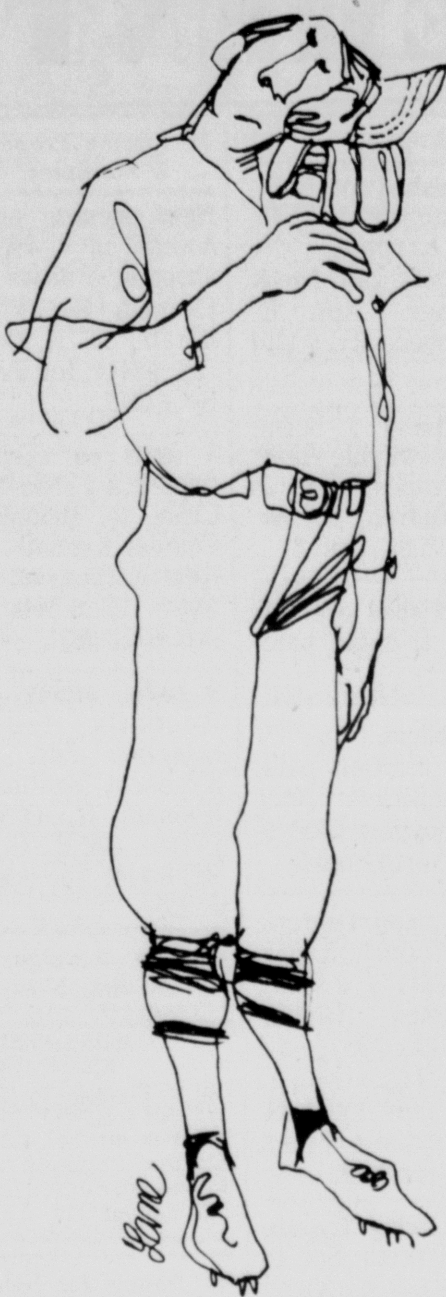

"I've played in this classic seven years and have never been late for my teeoff time," snapped Mays. "I expect my partner to be on time, the same as I am."

"This is nothing against Joe personally," Mays went on. "They can pair me with a rookie, and I don't care who it is as long as he is on time."

"I never got any call," Namath kept insisting. "I never got any call."

"Which of you gentlemen is Mr. Equal Time?"

TV in review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - All you have to do is look at local newscasts to see the growing informality in presenting news on television.

It's a trend that has thus far had little or no effect on the coast-to-coast network evening newscasts, where the traditional formality remains basically intact.

But the local broadcasters are definitely on to something that could be highly worthwhile in more than a ratings way—if they can keep the informality at a reasonable level so that it doesn't overshadow the news.

We've all seen examples of where determinedly informal newscasters let things get out of control by valuing their own remarks over the substance of their programs.

But we've also seen those newscasters who have just the right touch—and, as a result, not only succeed in their attempts to win viewers, but preserve their professional incisiveness as well.

All the best newscasters at the network and local levels have, of course, always aimed for as much direct, personal viewer rapport as possible within the structure of the formats of their programs.

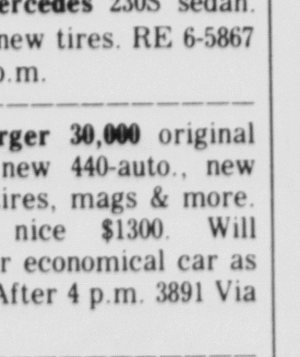

Who, for instance, will ever forget Edward R. Murrow's radio reports from London in World War II? The basic knowledge of just the right tone—just the right mixture of informality and formality—has never been a secret to the artists in the broadcasting profession.

JUST IN TIME

SWANSEA, Wales (UPI) - Alfred Silcox and his wife were driving home when their automobile stopped with a bump and started sinking into the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Silcox hurriedly scrambled out. Later the car was pulled out of what officials said was an old mineshaft that collapsed.

FUNNY BUSINESS

THE BETTER HALF

By Barnes

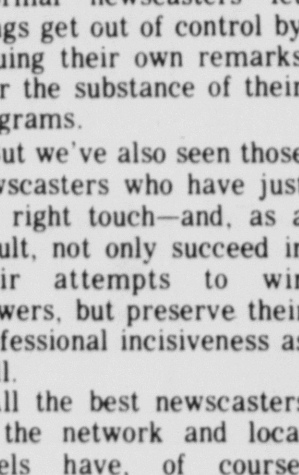

Cronkite and Severeid have it, and Brinkley and Chancellor have it too, and so do Reasoner and Smith, as well as many, many more.

The growing television newscast informality will give countless local stations a chance to add to the personal rapport long practiced by the best and most famous reporters, and even the individualistic down-home radio (and video) outlets.

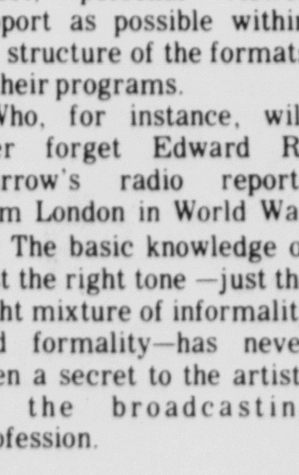

With more local cable television stations apparently in our future, there undoubtedly will be a further extension of this newscast informality. The overall trend will bring both awful and attractive moments of newscasting into our homes. But if reasonably done it can be a winning point to local viewers in this impersonal, technological age.

And there is little doubt that many broadcasters look to it as a weapon in trying to maintain contact with some viewers who have been overwhelmed in recent years by disturbing news stories - transmitted quicker and with more pictorial impact than ever before.
